Last Monday at "10 on the Park" at the Time Warner Center, The Hope for Depression Research Foundation (HDRF) held its annual New York Seminar and Luncheon and honored Brooke Shields with the inaugural "HOPE" Award for Depression Advocacy for her efforts to erase the negative stigma that surrounds depression, as well as for her courage in using her influence to redirect biased thinking about the use of medication and therapy to treat what is essentially a medical illness.

Dr. Herbert Kleber, one of the foremost substance abuse authorities, gave the latest information about "Marijuana and Adolescence" at a discussion with Felicia Taylor, who was the afternoon's emcee, at the luncheon.
